Description:
When Monique and her 10-year-old daughter Samantha show up unexpectedly on her sister’s Brooklyn doorstep, it shakes up Rachel and her partner Nadima’s orderly New York lifestyle in this poetic, powerful and remarkably touching drama. Monique is on the run from deep trouble and brings their family’s Southern roots with her, grabbing hold of Rachel’s life more ferociously than she could have ever imagined.

“A play about the tremendous, enduring component of love in our lives.” – Playwright Donnetta Lavinia Grays

SAM: A 10-year old girl. African-American. Smart. Sharp. Inquisitive. A little dark as she’s seen more than she’s needed to in her young life. Loving. Able to hold story through silence, but is prone to emotional eruption. Southern Georgia accent.

FOR ALL: We are looking for actors who can handle language with down-to-earth everyday ease.
